Senator Fulton Is Displeased

Nettled To Learn That Secretary Hitchcock Turned Down the Delegation

"Secretary Hitchcock is insane over the matter of Oregon lands. He seems to think that there is not an honest man in Oregon, and that matters politically are so rotten in this state he must needs turn down the entire congressional delegation and assume personal responsibility in filling federal positions in his department. His policy is working an incalculable injury to the commerce and in lusty of the state, for he is retarding one of Oregon's greatest resources.

United States Senator Fulton is in anything but a pleasant frame of mind since the publication yesterday of a dispatch from Washington containing the information that Edward W. Davis of Union county had been appointed by the president as register of the La Grande land office, and that John W. Knowles, who was unanimously recommended by the Oregon delegation, had been turned down. The senator regards the appointment of Davis as a direct thrust at the delegation, and he is inclined to resent the insult.

"I do not mean that Davis is not a good man," continued the senator, in reply to a question put by an Astorian man. "To the contrary, I regard him as honest and efficient. But Knowles was selected upon the man for the place, and we feel that our voice in the matter ought to be customary. It is a respect. For the record, the Oregon delegation, as a body, is not in favor of Knowles' name. Hitchcock seemed disposed to turn us down and held up the appointment. We believe that Knowles had been filed ago by Knowles, but Hitchcock refused absolutely to acquiesce in the name of the delegation. He sent out a special inspector, a man named Green, to investigate Knowles' record, and I presume the inspector's report was an adverse one.

"Naturally, we declined to accept Knowles' name without some reason. I am satisfied the charges amounted to nothing, and for this reason am inclined to be nettled over the matter. Hitchcock is notoriously antagonistic to Oregon, and his action in the matter of the LaGrande registration has not surprised me."

Senator Fulton added that the secretary of the interior has been pursuing an anti-Oregon policy all along. He has, says the senator, steadfastly refused to order surveys of public lands, with the result the settlers are shut out. All entries in this state have been suspended and Hitchcock has refused to issue patents until a special investigation is made in the case of each entry.

"Why, it would take 40 years to investigate all the land entries pending," declared the senator. "No matter whether or not there is evidence of fraud, Hitchcock insists on a special investigation in each case, and I have received hundreds of letters from intending settlers, asking relief. The secretary is withdrawing the public lands in this state and holding them for forest reserves, and at present has one-fifth of the total acreage of Oregon tied up. He is ruining one of Oregon's greatest industries--that of lumbering--and his policy of hostility is working incalculable injury to the commerce and development of the state."

WEIGHS HIS LAST CATCH

Cleveland More Interested in Fishing Than in Hoary Headed Infant Industries

MAKES MERRY OVER HIS BOY

Tallies Exactly Nine Pounds on His Father's Scales and This Is No Fish Story

New York, August 29.--Ex-President Grover Cleveland has been making merry with the members and guests of the Old Colony Club at a clam bake on Marshall's Island, says a Times special from Bourne, Mass. The feature of the day was a short humorous address he made:

"I hope," he said, "that the club will preserve in it efforts toward the unerring preservation of the Buzzards bay fisheries and I am willing to take out all the benefits of the club in fishing. Within the past few years I have been widely jeered and derided for spending so much of my time at fishing. For those who jeer and deride me I have only a quiet and unqualified contempt. I go fishing because I like it and I hope that I will continue to go fishing until as near the end of the chapter as possible.

"I should like to say right here that I am more interested in the protection of the fishing at Buzzards bay than about our hoary headed infant industries. I care more for these fishing interests than I do about the policy of the next Federal administration.

"I hope that the Old Colony Club will keep up its fight for the protection of the fisheries. Let there be no relaxations nor compromise. Keep up the fight unceasingly."

"Perhaps some of you are aware that an interesting event has recently taken place in our domestic circles. I am proud to say that another future fisherman has quite recently increased the population of Buzzards bay by one. Now, some people are in the habit of telling fish stories and some people, notably a physician of my acquaintance, are accustomed to weigh their catch of fish on their own private scales. Although this happy event was not even the occasion for telling any unusual yarn, I put my fish scales into requisition and weighed my latest catch honestly and the tally was an even nine pounds."

VALUABLE ENVELOPE MISSING

Bonds and Stock Valued at Over Million Alleged to Be Lost

St. Paul, August 29.--An envelope said to contain government bonds and copper mining stock valued at $1,500,000 which Joseph Picard said he placed in a vault at the state capitol 16 years ago for safe keeping cannot be found.

Picard's father, Joseph Picard, a wealthy Frenchman, died in Canada 16 years ago, and according to the story related by the son, placed in his hand just before his death an envelope which he was instructed not to open until he was 21 year old. He was then 14, and admits that he disobeyed his dying father's injunction and opened the envelope, which he found to contain government bonds valued at $1,000,000 and copper mining stocks worth half as much.

This envelope, Picard says, he resealed and took to the capitol where he asked the officials to place it in a vault for him for safekeeping. He says his true name, Alphonse Detrov, was written upon the envelope and that he was told it would be safe as long as he cared to leave it in the state's care.

HAMBURG BELLE WINS IN DRIZZLING RAIN

Record Made by Savable at Futurity Race Last Year Broken Yesterday by Third Filly to Win Out

SWERVE AT FINISH MARS EVENT

By Last Effectual Spurt Leader Shakes Off Leonidas and Wins By Head, Losing Length That Was Nearly Gained

New York, Aug. 29.--Hamburg Belle, daughter of the famous Hamburg, won the futurity today in a footing not to her liking, but in a race marred only by her swerve near the finish. Her performance, full six furlongs in 1:13, is a record for a race at that distance. From 1892 to 1901 inclusive the futurity course was 170 feet short of six furlongs. Savable made a record of 1:14 last year.

When Leonidas challenged, sixteenth from the finish, Fuller struck Hamburg Belle with his whip and she swerved sideways six feet, reducing her length's lead to nothing. The boy then dropped his whip, called on her to do her best, and spurring away she shook off her sturdy half brother, winning the

COFFEE DEALERS FAIL

Chicago, August 29.--A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Canton, O., says:

FIRST WIRELESS MESSAGE

Chicago, August 29.--The first wireless telegraph message ever sent to Chicago from Lake Michigan has been delivered to President James H. Graham of the Graham & Morris line. Despatched from the steamer City of Milwaukee 25 miles from shore, the message was received at the station in the tower of the Montgomery Ward building two hours before the City of Milwaukee steamed into port. When the City of Chicago, bound for St. Joseph, met the City of Milwaukee they conversed freely at a distance of five miles, and it was agreed that the Milwaukee should try to get communication with the Chicago station.

Announcement is made here of the failure of Dannemiller & Co., coffee dealers of Brooklyn, the amount involved in the failure being placed at nearly $500,000. Nearly all the company's paper is held by eastern banks and brokers. The failure is said to have been caused by the war of prices between big coffee combines. It is expected that relatives of members of the company will aid in meeting the indebtedness. The Dannemiller Grocery Company of this city is not involved in the failure.

GREAT FOSSIL COLLECTION

Dr. Holland Will Make Scientific Gift to Museum

New York, August 29.--Dr. William J. Holland, director of the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh, Pa., and confidential adviser to Andrew Carnegie in things scientific, has passed through this city with what is believed to be the greatest collection of fossils, in point of species, in the world today. The collection was purchased from Baron De Boyet of Brussels, Belgium, at a price said to exceed $250,000.

A cable dispatch some weeks ago announced that Mr. Carnegie had purchased the collection for Harvard university. Dr. Holland declares, however, that it is for the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh.

GLASSWORKERS STRIKE

New York, August 29.--Labor disturbances have arisen in the glass trade which has culminated in a strike of 1400 glass workers in this city against the Metropolitan District Mirror Manufacturers Association and a threatened strike by the Amalgamated International Glassworkers Union all over the country on September 1, for uniform rate of wages. The strike in this city has been precipitated by each glassworker on applying for employment being required to fill in blanks in a certificate issued by the Metropolitan District Mirror Manufacturers Association, giving among other things the name of the applicant, the date when he entered, and left employment last and the circumstances under which he left employment.

BUSINESS DUNDLES LOW

New York, August 29.--Business in the stock market has dwindled down to the lowest level since the summer of 1900. The coming money requirement to move the crops and its effect are awaited, and all other considerations, whether favorable or unfavorable, are ignored. There is growing confidence that adequate resources have been conserved to avoid undue money stringency but any speculative absorption of credits is feared, because it might encroach on the supply needed for regular trade purposes.
